16- Two vans of the radio station «FLASH» and the television station «ANTENNA» are attacked and set on fire with molotov bombs out of the Polytechnic school.

In the afternoon journalists of the television and radio station «SKY» are chased by anarchists because they video-tape the crowd, being in front of the Polytechnic school.

A van of a press agency is set on fire, there. Also an empty trolley-bus and an empty coach are attacked with molotov bombs.

Violent clashes start at Patission street (the street which passes in front of the Polytechnic school) between anarchists and both the police and followers of PASOK (the governing party).

During the clashes cops are using tear-gas. They arrest a young man who participates in clashes and beat him savagely. The fighting persons declare that they will not negotiate their exodus from the Polytechnic school with the professors of the university and they will leave when they want to.

So they leave the building a little time later without arrests to be succeeded by the cops.

17- The state attack the 4 occupated houses in Athens and arrest 26 squatters, carried out preventing arrests.

17- A camera of the television station «SKY» is destroyed by a person and the state, taking this fact as an occasion, attacks and arrests 64 persons who are standing round the table with the anarchist papers that the «Collaboration of anarchist groups» has put out of the Polytechnic school at Patission street. The non-arrested comrades inform the crowd that is gathered out of the Polytechnic school about the state repressive movements and call them to a direct reaction.

The Polytechnic school is occupied from 3000-3500 persons who demand the release of all the arrested anarchists.

A van of a television station is set on fire and a cop is drubbed . The state, frightened at the clashes that seem to break out, is forced to release the arrested anarchists and squatters.

In spite of this state movement the attacks against state buildings, cops and journalists are continued until the early hours of the next day.

17- During the march, for the Polytechnic uprising, in the centre of Patra anarchists attack with molotov bombs the state building of the prefecture of Ahaia and break the glasses of two banks.
